

MASSAGE

- The massage unit can be placed once the parts of the foam frame have been positioned.
- When it is a bed with dual mattresses, it is important to place the massage mat (1) on one side of the bed – not in the middle. The massage mat is placed under one of the dual mattresses. We recommend that the massage mat is placed approx. 10 cm from the foam frame at the headend. Whatever you do never place the massage mat under the center divider.
- The heating element is placed on the massage mat. The placement is shown on the massage mat. It is very important that the vinyl under the heater is completely smooth and without any kind of creases. These precautions also relate when placing the heating system.
- The cable of the heating element is led through the hole in the massage mat (2.) See instructions for Akva Vital Electronic heating elements before assembling.
- The cables of heater and the massage mat respectively are led under the massage mat, under the foam frame, through the hole in the lower casing and possibly the bottom plates. See assembly instructions applying for your particular Akva waterbed model.
- How to use the massage unit: see directions for use separately enclosed.

